HERE'S A GREAT TIP—SHE MOVED BY PARCEL POST

Seattle, Wash., April 19.—Mrs. Annie Olson is believed to be the first housewife in the United States to "move" by parcel post.

Postoffice clerks were astounded when she appeared at the parcel post window demanding stamps for conveyance of her household goods from this city to Quinault.

"I figured it would be cheaper this way," said Mrs. Olson, handing in a barrel containing her kitchen stove.

Other articles of furniture followed, weighing in all 337 pounds and including kitchen utensils, a rocking chair and a dining room table among other things. They cost her $4.62 in stamps. It cost her $20 the old way, she said.

THE "BIGGEST FAKE" CONTEST CAUSES BIG INTEREST

The "greatest fake" contest appears to be arousing real excitement. The answers are coming in fast. The United Charities appears to be the most general selection, although the morals squad and a few others are crowding the Charities. Here are some of today's.

By Earl Pearl, Dunning, Ill.: 1, United Charities; 2, World's Greatest Newspaper; 3, women police squad.

I. P., Chicago, Ill.: 1, United Charities; 2, Progressive party.

One who doesn't wish his name printed chooses the Bell Telephone Co. as the greatest fake.

J. J. W. submits this: "Of the three greatest fakes in Chicago, the preachers who are clamoring for a Billy Sunday revival are the biggest. Next come the Hearst papers and the United Charities."

K. G. isn't quite sure which is the biggest, but he is sure it lies between the United Charities and the morals squad.

Here's the idea of Pedro Rothger, 1462 W. 73d pl.: "1—The posters all over town which read: 'There is no excuse for being out of work when you can find a job in the Want Ad columns of the Chicago Daily News.' 2—The bargain basements of the State st. stores. They have no bargains. The goods on sale there are mostly of a quality that couldn't stand daylight inspection. 3—Mayr's wonderful stomach remedy."

There are many other letters, but on account of their length we are putting them in the The Public Forum department, where they'll appear from day to day.
